

What's new on Robinhood Legend?

From anchored VWAP to chart comparisons, check out what we've added.

Anchored VWAP

By popular demand, we now offer an auto-anchored VWAP indicator and an anchored VWAP drawing tool to help to identify support and resistance levels with more precision.

Compare assets

Spot trends, correlations, and differences between assets by comparing multiple stocks, ETFs, or crypto on a single chart.

New metrics on the options chain

You can spot trading opportunities even faster with new probability metrics available directly on the options chain.

New IV data

Make more informed options trades with new implied volatility (IV) data by expiration, available on the options chain.

Joint account access

You can now trade from your joint account on Legend, making it easier to see all your accounts in one place.

All investments involve risk and loss of principal is possible.

Some of the capabilities of Robinhood Legend may be different or absent from what is offered via the Robinhood mobile app or Robinhood classic. You must have a Robinhood Crypto account to trade crypto on Legend. Please be sure to understand these differences and what might work best for you.

Options trading entails significant risk and is not appropriate for all customers. Customers must read and understand the Characteristics and Risks of Standardized Options before engaging in any options trading strategies. Certain complex options strategies (including multi-leg) carry additional risk, including the potential for losses that may exceed the original investment amount.
